Breakdown

Course Requirements

Students are required to attend classes either virtually, in person, online, or in a combination of settings based on the format of the course. Your instructor will provide more details about your specific course format. Students need to participate in both ENG 111 and ENG 045 courses.

Students in:

- 16-week courses need to plan to devote six “classroom” hours a week
- 12-week courses need to plan to devote nine “classroom” hours a week
- 8- week courses need to plan to devote twelve “classroom” hours a week attending and/or working online completing English experiences and assignments for both ENG 111 and ENG 045 classes.

Grading Scale

ENG 045/111 grades are earned separately. A certain grade in ENG 045 does not guarantee a certain grade in ENG 111 (or vice versa).

A student will earn ENG 045 grades (A, B, C, or F) by the following:

- Completing Writing Development Assignments (weighted 30% of overall grade).
- Completing the ENG 045 Final Reflection (weighted 20% of overall grade).
- Completing Discussion Reflections (weighted 15% of overall grade).
- Completing Checkpoint Surveys (weighted 15% of overall grade).
- Completing Critical Thinking Journal Prompts (weighted 10% of overall grade).
- Completing Grammar Assignments (weighted 10% of overall grade).

This course uses a 10-point grading scale.

- A: 90% and up
- B: 80% - 89%
- C: 70% - 79%
- F: < 69%

Grades and Feedback

Students often have questions regarding evaluation of work. Instructors hold regular office hours, either on campus or online, to assist students with questions about the course or evaluation of submitted work. Students should always work first with course instructors to find answers to questions or solve issues with evaluation prior to contacting the Department Head or Associate Department Head (if applicable). After every effort to resolve issues in this manner, students may contact the Dean of the Division of Liberal Arts.

Late Work Policy for This Course

Late work is not accepted for assignments as they stand as your attendance credit as well. However, everyone is given three late passes for ENG 045 (not ENG 111). If you need to submit assignments late by one class date, write “late pass” at the top of the assignment or in the comments section of the assignment. Late passes can only be used for one missed session, meaning they cannot be used more than a week after the assignment was assigned. Late passes should be used for emergencies.

Late passes do not apply to the final exam. Many of our assignments for ENG 045 will be short, so please do your best to submit everything on time. As always, if something happens, reach out to me.

Question Discussion Board

The “Question Discussion Board” is a forum you can use to pose questions to classmates about assignments, policies, etc. All questions should be relevant to the course work; abuse of this forum will result in permanent withdrawal from the forum. This forum is located under the “Collaboration” tab on the left panel of the Blackboard page. Note that any discussion of grades is prohibited in this forum due to FERPA privacy federal rules.

Technical Difficulties

You will need access to reliable technology to be successful in this course. Consistent technology issues are not valid excuses for not submitting your work by the deadline. If you have issues submitting your work due to a technical issue, please do the following:

1. Refresh the screen or switch browsers; Google Chrome seems to work best for online courses
2. Take a screenshot of the error for documentation and email me immediately
3. Contact ITS if you need additional technical support. Their information can be found in the Student Support left panel of the course

When verifying the time for any Blackboard-based submission, the English Department recognizes the time/date stamp that is verified by Wake Tech’s LMS Administrator as the official and final record.

Review Your Grade

You may access your grade throughout the semester in the gradebook platform. If you have questions or concerns about a graded essay, you must wait 24 hours after receiving my comments and your results before approaching me to discuss the assignment, so you can fully consider the feedback given.

Netiquette

For this online class, using proper netiquette—or online manners—is important as you express and hear various views. The failure to use a respectful, appropriate tone in your online discourse—in this context in the discussion, peer review, and blog forums—can impact the assessment. Please refrain from threats, ad hominem attacks, and disrespectful tactics. Any posts deemed inappropriate by the course instructor will be deleted, and no credit will be awarded for the assignment, and a behavioral report may be processed which may involve removal from the course. For additional information, review the rubric outlined in each forum as well as the netiquette video in the Course Resources section.

🎯 How the Department Will Help You Succeed: Department Policies & Procedures

English Department Policy Regarding Student Work

- The English Department requires that all final drafts of out-of-class essays be typed (computer-generated). A rough draft of all out-of-class essays must also be turned in (or for online classes, submitted in a file format that is compatible with Microsoft Word).
- Instructors may also require that out-of-class essays be submitted as electronic files. Essays may be checked electronically for plagiarism.
- Instructors may require that students submit copies of all sources used in researched essays.
- All papers will be retained by the instructor for one semester.
- All grades are based on the ten-point scale, according to department policy.

Academic Integrity Statement

Each student at Wake Technical Community College has the responsibility of ensuring the integrity of their own work. Wake Tech's academic integrity policy (opens in new window)

URL: <https://www.waketech.edu/catalog/student-code-conduct-rights-and-responsibilities> specifically prohibits plagiarism, self-plagiarism, and cheating of any kind. In other words, any work you submit in this class must be your own. Examples include, but are not limited to, thesis statements, outlines, bibliographies, essay drafts, blog or discussion board posts, wiki contributions, reflective writings, presentations, and more. In addition, information from outside sources included in your work must be properly documented using the appropriate editorial style.

Using a product or technology (ChatGPT, Dall-E, etc.) in the course to create or aggregate synthetic content for the course, such as any course writing, brainstorming, generating a draft, a works cited source bank, answering discussion groups, collaboration, group work, or other attendance activities, is considered academic misconduct similar to plagiarism or violations of the student code of conduct. Unless expressly permitted by your instructor, suspected cases of AI-generated submissions may be reported to the Student Code of Conduct office as a violation of the college's Academic Integrity Policy.

Your instructor will inform you of the requirements for individual assignments. To avoid violating this policy, please seek guidance from your instructor if you have questions. Please also refrain from seeking help from sources of collaboration that have not been sanctioned by your instructor. Violation(s) of this policy range from a loss of points on the assignment to a zero on the assignment to an F in the course as well as sanctions from the institution that may be recorded on your permanent college record.

Instructors reserve the right to require a meeting with a student before determining the final grade for an assignment when inappropriate AI use is suspected. This required meeting may either be in person or on Teams (cameras and recording on). If students have any questions about AI use, they should ask their instructor.

Rounding Policy

Final course grades (weighted total) will be determined by the following method:

- When the decimal grade point is greater than or equal to "0.5", the grade is to be rounded up to the nearest whole number. For example, an "89.56" would be rounded to a "90".

- When the decimal grade point is less than “0.5”, the grade is to be rounded down to the nearest whole number. For example, a “69.49” would be rounded to a “69”.
